

The (London) TIMES February 21, 1967

C.I.A. links denied

Italy's majority party, the Christian Democrats, have denied foreign press reports that its election campaigns had been financed by the United States Central Intelligence Agency over the past 18 years. In Brussels, the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, which claims to have about 64 million members in 94 non-communist countries, also denied that it had any association with the C.I.A.